INTRODUCTION

Web3 community project

$WINRY is a decentralised project on the Ethereum network (ERC-20). Winry Inu is a New Born Cryptocurrency based on Anime Character named Winry. A Community-driven project with leading professional Developers and Marketing Gurus. At Winry, we work together as a community to become the next biggest anime project in the Metaverse!

What is web3?

Web3 would allow sites and services to exist across decentralised computer networks and rely on blockchain technology to validate user data. The people who actually use sites and apps would then, ideally, own them. Participate in an online community enough, and you'd get a piece of it in the form of a digital token. Consumers, rather than a large corporation, would govern the service.

"Just wondering what the future will be like in 10, 20 or 30 years. 2051 sounds crazy futuristic!"

Elon Musk - talking about web3

There are a few fundamental differences between web2 and web3, but decentralization is at its core.

Web3 enhances the internet as we know it today with a few other added characteristics. web3 is:

- Verifiable
- Trustworthy
- Self-governing
- Permissionless
- Distributed and robust
- Stateful
- Native built-in payments

People can make a living by participating in the protocol in various ways, in both technical and non-technical levels.

Web3 applications either run on blockchains, decentralized networks of many peer to peer nodes (servers), or a combination of the two that forms a cryptoeconomic protocol. These apps are often referred to as dapps (decentralized apps), and you will see that term used often in the web3 space.

When you hear about web3, you'll notice that cryptocurrency is often part of the conversation. This is because cryptocurrency plays a big role in many of these protocols. It provides a financial incentive (tokens) for anyone who wants to participate in creating, governing, contributing to, or improving one of the projects themselves.

"Before, Internet owns your data. With web3, you own internet's data"

Winry on Web3

Tokens like $Winry offer several hundred digit millisecond latency and transaction costs of a small fraction of a penny. Unlike the current financial system, users do not have to go through the traditional numerous, friction-filled steps to interact with and participate in the network. All they need to do is download or install a wallet, and they can start sending and receiving payments without any gatekeeping.

Crypto wallets like MetaMask and TrustWallet enable you to integrate easy, anonymous, and secure international payments and transactions into web3 applications.
